The client hereby requests one (1) proposed design, completely free of charge The completed design will be delivered to the client by being posted on server space owned by nburman design and/or by email to the client's email address as stated above.

The client agrees to provide all graphics and text necessary for the website and agrees that it is the owner of material and/or has required permission to use such material. nburman design is not responsible for any breach of copyright that might ensue from the use of material submitted.

nburman design will revise the website three (3) times to make sure that everything is as the client requires. Final proofreading is the responsibility of the client. After the three (3) revisions are made, no further revisions can or will be made to the site without payment.

Domain registration, hosting on servers other than those used by nburman design, URL redirections and other fees related to the production of the website are the responsibility of the client.

The website will be developed for the purpose of raising and collecting funds for a project related to building projects and missionary work linked with a religious or faith based organization (ie. church) including short term and long term missions. When the project for which the website is developed has been completed, the site may be further developed by nburman design to incorporate ongoing useage. Costs for such usage will be agreed to at a later date.

This agreement will be accompanied by a letter of approval from your pastor, minister or organization leader.
